it's not because the products are too expensive; that's all relative.

incidence of chronic neurological-developmental problems without closer scrutiny of the interventions in the Danish study, "we estimated that a couple aged 40 might have half the prospect of having a baby with any given attempt than a similar couple at age 25 or so.";

It may not feel entirely natural.

most people have some stress-related reactions after a traumatic event; but, not everyone gets PTSD;

"are the authors really attempting to refute the existence of these compact..."