for tracey, beyond the arcane science and dueling experts, the case followed a classic story line amazingly, some women come to believe their breast cancer was a "gift." they find strength in themselves that they never knew existed the most common adverse events experienced during clinical studies were mild and temporary, and included pain, redness at the injection site, headache, muscle aches, and malaise